SCIENTIFIC WORK. --ELECTRICAL THEORIES. Clerk Maxwells first electrical paper--that on Faradays Lines of Force--was read to the Cambridge Philosophical Society on December 10th, 1855, and Part II. on February 11th, 1856. The author was then a Bachelor of Arts, only twenty-three years in age, and of less than one years standing from the time of taking his degree. The opening words of the paper are as follows (Scientific Papers, vol. i. , p. 155) : -- The present state of electrical science seems peculiarly unfavourable to speculation. The laws of the distribution of electricity on the surface of conductors have been analytically deduced from experiment; some parts of the mathematical theory of magnetism are established, while in other parts the experimental data are wanting; the theory of the conduction of galvanism, and that of the mutual attraction of conductors, have been reduced...
