By Alfred Grosvenor Rolfe

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Mr. Rolfe of the Hill When Mr. Rolfe finally granted me permission to bring out a book of his writings and speeches, my chief satisfaction lay in the fact that I should have a very welcome opportunity of giving pleasure to every alumnus and friend of The Hill. Surely there is no man associated with the history of the School about whom the affection and honor of all have gathered more spontaneously and loyally. For years he has steadfastly refused with various characteristically humorous and modest dodges even to consider the proposition although it has long been desired and requested by many of his colleagues who, knowing him best, honor him most and have the best reason for recognizing a collection of his work as a rich treasury of good things. Robert Louis Stevenson in his Apology for Idlers has a word to say which is exceedingly apt: A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will: and their...
