Excerpt: .of that contest--being as Lincoln phrased it, an appeal from the ballot to the bullet. The creed of Lincoln, the representative man of the North, was none other than that of John Brown, whose creed was this: I believe in the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence, --the latter phrase meaning the right of every man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. John Brown thought to realize the creed at once, violently, by a slave insurrection; Lincoln, in the course of time, by peaceable and constitutional methods. The Almighty made use of John Brown and Abraham Lincoln in accomplishing the destruction of slavery, but by a method not proposed by either. Lincoln yielded to the power higher than his own, and with trembling joy grasped the great opportunity God placed within his reach to effect in the present that which had been his great hope for the distant future. The purpose of the North, the purpose of the South, and the overruling power of God, are clearly and admirably set forth in Lincoln s second Inaugural address. I quote two or three paragraphs: --- All knew that this interet (slavery) was somehow the cause of the war. To strengthen, perpetuate and extend this interest was the object for which the insurgents would rend the Union even by war, while the Government claimed no right to do more than to restrict the territorial enlargement of it. Neither party expected for the war...
